SCHOOL HISTORY

Ancient Greek Architecture

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

- The development of architecture in ancient Greece.
- Characteristics architectural styles or orders, (a) Doric, (b) Ionic, and (c) Corinthian.
- Architectural structures and sites in ancient Greece.

FACT FILE Let's know more about ancient Greek architecture!

The ancient Greeks constructed many remarkable structures. Their development in various fields influenced their art and architecture. Due to mathematical and geometrical advancements, the Greeks raised very impressive sites, temples, and theatres.

In general, their architecture was characterised as precise and creative. By 900-725 BCE, Greek architects started designing and building temples to their gods. Temple construction presented the only task for a Greek architect until the 5th century BCE. Temples represented the house of a certain god or goddess. Usually, each deity had its own cult statue in the temple. The first temples were simple in design. They were built out of rubble, and mud brick.
